New York's Irish Pay Honor to St. Patrick

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 16—With bagpipes skirling and emerald green banners flying, the men and women—from Cork, Kerry, Dublin and other parts of Ireland—pay their annual tribute to St. Patrick today in the traditional parade up Fifth avenue.

And for the first time since 1894, an Irish-born mayor—sure isn't William O'Dwyer a fine brot of a by from old County Mayo—will be in the reviewing stand as the expected 75,000 sons of Erin and their gay colleens march along to the lilting music of band and pipes.

The weatherman—who must be an O'Brien or a Murphy—has promised sunny skies for the wearing of the green.

Bowles Says "Reactionary Few"
Cause Bottleneck in Housing

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 16—Chester Bowles said today a housing "bottleneck" that must and will be broken is the "obstructionist attitude of a reactionary few" in the construction industry.

The stabilization director said in a transcribed radio address (ABC network) that "all over the country there are countless able, a million plus homes a year. They didn't want premium payment to encourage more building materials at reasonable prices. They were for everything as usual, business-as-usual, labor-as-usual, building-as-usual and government-as-usual."

Veterans, Bowles added, are fed up with the trailer camps, cheap hotels and makeshift barracks so many are forced to fall back on these days."

Went "Wrong Way"

"As soon as it became apparent that the government was determined on a hard-hitting (housing) program," Bowles said, "the business-as-usual group got active—but in the wrong way."

"They wanted to keep homes scarce—and shoot prices up instead of building homes. Like a plague of seven-year locusts they swarmed into the halls of congress, pleading to all who would listen that the program would not work."

"Fantastic, they said. The industry would never gear itself to

REDS SAY IRAN BACKS BRITISH
OIL MONOPOLY

Russia Charges Little Nation Refused To Give Them Similar Concessions.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, March 16—The Moscow radio said today that the Iranian government was "defending the monopolistic possession of British oil concessions in Iran by refusing to grant Russia similar concessions in the country's northern provinces."

The broadcast said the assertion was made by Alexeev, a writer for the government newspaper Izvestia.

Old Pledge Cited

It quoted Alexeev as saying that under the 1921 Soviet-Iranian treaty Iran pledged not to transfer to any third power mining, oil, railway or other concessions given up by Russia, but he added that the treaty had been broken "on numerous occasions" by the Iranian government.

Specifically, the writer said concessions were granted to Standard Oil, and the southern Iranian concessions were granted to the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

"In a period of 20 years, the Iranian government has tried to bring about conflict between the USSR and other great powers," Alexeev was quoted as saying.

Alexeev added that the treaty subsequently was broken by Iran in 1923, 1937 and 1939, with the explanation that Iran did not have the capital, technique or specialists to exploit her own resources.

"However, this was only a maneuver which was completely exposed by the Soviet offer on a concession one and a half years ago," he added.

Claim Discrimination

"This proposal of the Soviet was greeted by great resistance from Iranian ruling circles, whilst at the same time in the southern part of Iran a huge British concession had been granted to the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co."

Article on This Page Tells of Modern Bathroom and Plumbing

Bathrooms and Plumbing Greatly Improved.

THINGS have moved rapidly ahead in the development of modern bathrooms. Probably the greatest innovation of all is the new two, three or four passenger bathroom. By clever compartmentation, or dividing of the space formerly devoted to the average bathroom, it is now possible and practical to give each of the fixtures its own small room and have them used with complete privacy. What this means to the family with children all getting ready for school at the same time that the adults are preparing for the day's work, can well be imagined. It is equally

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN

SCRATCHED BATHTUB

Q: There are many scratches in my bathtub, and it looks soiled in spite of cleaning with scouring powders, etc. How can I restore the original finish?

A: When the enameled surface of a plumbing fixture has been dulled and scratched by the use of harsh abrasives, soiling cannot be prevented. Replacement of the tub is the only real remedy. Steel wool, harsh scouring compounds, acids and drain cleaners intended only for solid porcelain bowls should never be used on enameled plumbing fixtures.

BLISTERED PAINT

Q: We have trouble with the paint on one of our window sills. It blisters, even though the old paint was removed and the new paint applied over shellac. What is the reason for this blistering?

A: Water must find its way into the sill from a crack along the edges. The crack may be in the joint between the window frame and the outside wall. Fine cracks can be closed with thick paint, wider ones should be filled with caulk compound, forced in with a caulking-gun.

Practical and Beautiful
Bathroom walls are going in for color, and some of the latest wall coverings are as practical as they are beautiful. Floors are following the same trend; and over-all color schemes carried through in walls, floor, draperies and curtains are the order of the day. The cold, white hospital-like bathroom has passed away. The smallest of bathrooms can have an air of luxury at little or no increase in cost if the owner uses good judgment in selecting his materials and fixtures.

Modern plumbing has benefited tremendously through the use of non-rusting pipes and fittings that may be shaped into place instead of having to be cut threaded and fitted with extreme care; and by the use of silent fixtures and less weighty fixtures. Time was when every mechanic in a new house, carpenter, painter, and mason, were called upon to help the plumber upstairs with the heavy porcelain bathtub. Today a strong man can carry a modest tub up himself. Showers, once a complicated job of tiling over head shields, and of complicated nickel-plated fittings, now appear as neat enameled steel compartments, plain and efficient, and ready to stand in a corner.

Efficient and Economical

The designers of plumbing systems have learned how to install bathrooms back to back to effect economy in the rough plumbing lines, how to assure the house of ample water supply and plenty of domestic hot water, how to make the systems more sanitary and healthy. In short the home with modern plumbing fixtures, installed according to modern standards, leaves nothing to be desired from the standpoint of complete convenience and beauty.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

By The Associated Press

A modern variation of Colonial architecture distinguishes this suburban home near Indianapolis, Ind. A combination brick and vertical clapboard exterior with scalloped trim gives the house a cheerful appearance. Deep windows with long shutters break the severity of line. There are three large bedrooms and two baths. A laboratory adjoins the living room. The kitchen includes a breakfast nook. The American Builder magazine points out that this house requires a large plot and would be in the near-luxury class.

WHY WASTE COAL?

One of a series of articles intended to help solve heating problems and conserve fuel.

Some stokers seem to be victims of spring fever about this time of the year, particularly on days when there is little demand for heat. Often times a stoker will be accomplished by using the natural draft of the furnace, there is not enough draft. Therefore, adjust the weight on the draft control until the heat slowly slides off the slots. In other words, when the draft is proper, the paper will not stick tightly, but will stay momentum over the slots.

If you do not have a barometer, the same thing may be accomplished by using the heat. Often times a stoker will be accomplished by using the natural draft of the furnace, there is not enough draft. Therefore, adjust the weight on the draft control until the heat slowly slides off the slots. In other words, when the draft is proper, the paper will not stick tightly, but will stay momentum over the slots.

Practically, a hold-fire control is included for the purpose of furnaces. The object of the hold-fire control is to maintain a very slow-burning fire, and if the natural draft is excessive this purpose is defeated.

Practically every stoker is equipped with a balance check-draft, or barometric draft control. This simple device is included for the purpose of furnaces. The ideal stack draft as measured over the fire is about .03 of an inch of water. It is quite simple to set this device in the following manner:

With an ordinary fire in the furnace, and while the stoker is operating, take a piece of newspaper approximately 3 by 5 inches

Amazingly light

Would you believe that this NEW 'Budgit' Chain Block weighs only 81 lbs. in two-ton size, 59 lbs. in the one-ton size, and only 48 lbs. in the 1/4 and 1/2-ton capacity? It is true. For a brand new design and the liberal use of alloy steels and stampings have produced these astonishingly low weights.

Would you believe that this 'Budgit' Chain Block lifts easier and faster than other standard spur-gear hoist in the market? This, also, is true. Anti-friction bearings throughout and all working parts enclosed in a grease-filled sealed chamber, make this possible.

It takes much less physical effort to lift weight with the 'Budgit' Chain Block — so the worker likes it.

It is perfectly balanced with or without load — another element of modern, correct design. So is the roller type load chain.

The 'Budgit' Chain Block is equipped with an automatic brake which prevents the load from descending except at the will of the operator.

'Budgit' Chain Blocks are built to lift up to 1/4, 1/2, 1 and 2 tons and prices start at $39.50 list. Send for Bulletin No. 357.

Clearing the Air

THE only thing to be gained by plain speaking in Russian relations is better understanding. The world's hope of cooperative security rests entirely on the theory that if governments desiring peace understand one another they can outlaw war.

With this in mind, we may ask ourselves if the recent plain speaking about Russia and by Russia is leading to better understanding, or only to an acrimonious exchange of insults and misgivings that threaten to lead away from peace, instead of toward it.

In one respect, the plain speaking has promoted better understanding. The United States and Great Britain have conveyed to the Soviet Union the fact of their popular and official misgivings over the latter's conduct since the end of the war. They have indicated that Russia, in their opinion, is behaving belligerently.

Premier Stalin now has made an official report to Anglo-American opinion. It is, in brief, that from where he sits and with his background, it looks to him as if men like Winston Churchill were baiting the Soviet Union into war. It must be remembered in justice to the case he presents that Stalin and his advisers learned their prejudices in a hard school. If they sometimes seem too sensitive to criticism and too skeptical of the motives of others, they were taught to feel that way by their own experiences and those of their predecessors in Russian diplomacy.

To realize this and to try to believe the problem of mutual distrust is not insoluble is a step in the direction of clearing the air. It also can become a fiasco of name-calling and hard feelings if there is not brought to the task a greater measure of statesmanship than has been the sorry lot of the little people who have died and suffered through the ages for the shortcomings of their political leaders.

There is no war in the thoughts of people. The people want security and peace. The task of their spokesmen is to find the terms of security and peace. If they fail now, as they failed before, they will be discredited forever for betraying men's highest hope in our time.

Millions Died

HERMANN GOERING'S chance to tell his story in the Nuremberg trial is being used by the No. 2 Nazi for his own prestige in the German legend that will come out of the Hitler era. He is making the most of his last public appearance.

Goering wants it to appear that he was Hitler's faithful servant. He is putting it in the record that the powerful German air force was his personal contribution to German victory. He wants the record to show the full extent of his personal responsibility.

Intervention in Spain was his idea. The persecutions of minorities were agreeable to him. There never has been much doubt of Goering's ability in the Hitler dictatorship, and now there will be less.

His candor at the trial is proof of his confidence that he and other key figures in the Hitler conspiracy will bear heroic proportions in the German version of World War II. Goering does not want to hide anything. He is on trial for his life, but expects to salvage his glory.

Millions died for Germany's criminal conspiracy, but neither they nor the millions whose lives were ruined are mentioned by Goering. They are not important to Hitler's half-apparatus. With an eye to history, he is concentrating on the national glory in the sordid aftermath of suffering that marks the passing of the latest German-inspired plot to conquer Europe with force of arms. In the German view—in Goering's view—humanity is expendable. By killing more enemies and ruining more lives, Germany surely will win—the next time.

Confidence and Chester Bowles

IN a remark that harks back 13 years to President Roosevelt's first inauguration when he told us that all we "had to fear was fear itself," Chester Bowles promises that the administration's economic controls will work if all of us have confidence.

Achievement of full production and production, he says, is being delayed "by fear and doubt and blind self-interest." To this list of handicaps must be added one more which Mr. Bowles, speaking for the government, cannot recognize.

It is a gnawing conviction that government itself is floundering in its handling of the problems of free enterprise. There is a lack of confidence in the intentions and ability of the national government. It was lack of confidence that caused voters to sweep out the Hoover administration in 1932. It was lack of confidence in the Roosevelt administration that handicapped recovery during the 1930's. It is lack of confidence in the Truman administration that is gumming up post-war reconversion.

The lack is not concentrated in any section of the population. As Mr. Bowles is able to observe from his vantage point as stabilization director, not only management and capital are uncertain and skeptical, but also organized and unorganized labor.

Talk To Stalin First

By WALTER LIPPMAN

A Quiet Talk Should Precede Iran Shouting.

IT will be most unwise, so I venture to think, for us to raise the Iranian question before our new Security Council, before our new ambassador to Russia, Gen. Bedell Smith, has had time to reach Moscow and enter into a full discussion on the Iran and related matters with Stalin. Perhaps it is impossible to have such a discussion. We should make every effort to find out. We have not made the effort.

The astonishing fact is that with the peace of the world hanging in the balance we now have no one in Moscow, and have not had any one during this whole most critical period, who can even see Stalin, much less talk with him. The Russians have no one in Washington to whom we can talk with any hope of an important exchange of views.

Surely it would be better to establish direct diplomatic contact with Moscow before we have a showdown by public debate. A showdown may be necessary and it may be inevitable. But the right time to have a showdown is after diplomatic negotiation has been attempted and has failed, not before it has even been tried.

Showdown

If we are to have a showdown, which may mean an irreparable break among the great powers and the destruction of UNO, let us have it after our new ambassador reports that he is unable to negotiate seriously with Stalin and that the differences between us are vital and irreconcilable. To announce that we are going to have a showdown while our ambassador still is grounded in Washington is not firmness in the conduct of foreign affairs. It is recklessness.

AND A GREAT DAY FOR THE IRISH, IT IS, TOO

Shure and tomorrow's St. Patrick's day.

St. Patrick? St. Patrick chased the snakes out of Ireland. He was sort of the Harold Ickes of the Emerald Isles.

Every year we dedicate March 17th to his memory. This is done at the behest of millions of Americans of Irish descent and the National Association of Shamrock Manufacturers.

Hibernians celebrate the day religiously. The non-Irish use it as an excuse to get some good out of the verdant Christmas neckties they haven't the nerve to wear any other day in the year.

Incidentally, all the citizens of greenish hue you note on the morrow will not be observing St. Patrick's day. Some just won't have gotten over the size of yesterday's income tax payment.

My favorite St. Patrick's day story concerns the philosophical O'Clitizen who at the height of the recent unpleasantness was thus soliloquizing: "Shure and it's a shame that in all this great wide world there are only two non-belligerents—us peaceful Irish and them cowardly Swedes."

So They Say

Dr. Isidor Lubin, former Commissioner of Labor Statistics and advisor to Presidents Roosevelt and Truman—"A serious depression of prolonged duration could easily become the basis of a Fascist movement in this country."

Victuals for Britain

By The Associated Press

CANBERRA, Australia—Australia during the war sent Britain 8.2 billion pounds of food worth more than half a billion dollars. In the last two years about 360,000,000 pounds of food was supplied by the British Admiralty, about two-thirds for the Pacific Fleet. The fleet now has moved its base from Sydney to Hong-kong but still depends largely on Australia for food.

Vets' Education Overflow

Survey May Result in Boost for Small Schools.

By JACK STINNETT

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON—The Veterans Administration, with the help of the office of education, is conducting a survey which may go a long way toward solving the critical problem of higher education for veterans under the GI Bill of Rights next fall.

Nearly 2,000 senior and junior colleges will be surveyed for educational and housing facilities for veterans.

The idea is to channel veterans seeking college educations into these smaller schools. About 40 per cent of the veterans now getting higher education under the bill are attending 38 of the larger and better known colleges and universities. Many smaller schools have so few that they aren't even tabulated. Several larger universities are already so overcrowded that they have refused to take any more students until accommodations can be enlarged and facilities increased.

VFW Campaign

At the same time, the Veterans of Foreign Wars are opening a campaign to expand the nation's educational system through federal subsidies. Presumably a large portion of the funds would go to some smaller colleges.

The "name" institutions, already crowded to overflowing, are looking forward with some distress to what will happen when

Talk To Stalin First

By WALTER LIPPMAN

A Quiet Talk Should Precede Iran Shouting.

The Alsop brothers reported on Friday that among "American policy makers" it is assumed that a radical change in Russian policy can only be accomplished by the most violent kind of crisis which will convince the Russian leaders that the rest of the world means business."

I do not believe that it is in fact the assumption of the President and the secretary of state that they must now precipitate "the most violent kind of crisis."

No sane man, certainly no responsible statesman in a democracy, makes it his policy to precipitate the most violent kind of crisis. This view is, however, held by some of their advisers, and it may account for the fact that the state department has failed to keep in diplomatic contact with Moscow during the past three months.

Surely it would be better to establish direct diplomatic contact with Moscow before we have a showdown by public debate. A showdown may be necessary and it may be inevitable. But the right time to have a showdown is after diplomatic negotiation has been attempted and has failed, not before it has even been tried.

Showdown

If we are to have a showdown, which may mean an irreparable break among the great powers and the destruction of UNO, let us have it after our new ambassador reports that he is unable to negotiate seriously with Stalin and that the differences between us are vital and irreconcilable. To announce that we are going to have a showdown while our ambassador still is grounded in Washington is not firmness in the conduct of foreign affairs. It is recklessness.

This procedure can be justified only if we have written off as hopeless a negotiated settlement with the Soviet Union. There are many who think that a negotiated settlement is impossible, that the Soviet Union does not and will not keep its promises, that negotiation can result only in appeasement, that is to say the sacrifice of the weak nations and the abandonment of our principles. The Russians have certainly done much to confirm this view, and mighty little, indeed practically nothing, to offset it.

Yet if this is to be our final judgment, which it may be, our people are entitled to feel that it rests not on deductions from assumptions but upon an exhaustive effort to negotiate directly and persistently with the rulers in the Kremlin. Any fool can set off "the most violent kind of crisis" and hope that a great big exciting bang will somehow have a fine healthy effect. But that is not statesmanship in a great power which professes to be a guardian of the peace, and is in truth a principal guardian of the peace. That is little boys playing with matches.

Methods

The worse one's estimate of the Russian intentions, the greater the reason for not dealing with them verbally, rhetorically, dramatically and grandiloquently, as we have been dealing with them, as we are dealing with them. It is, as is the case, there is an iron curtain between the western countries and Russia, then the only possible way to penetrate it is by ceasing to operate at long range and to close in for direct talk at close range.

At long range nothing gets through the iron curtain that our orators want to have get through. Moreover what they really accomplish is to lie our own heads in negotiation. We ought to understand that and act accordingly by quieting all the sunny to keep quiet—while we try to negotiate with the Russians before we strike an attitude which leaves us no alternative but to get ready to fight them.

Of course, it is difficult to negotiate with the Russians, and conceivably it may be impossible. But when we had to negotiate with the British, who are of course much easier to negotiate with, we shut off the oratory and negotiated in private for equality but flatly rejected his "condition" that the council must discuss his peace plan.

Requests of a $4,000 trust fund to aid needy children of the Delaware south school and to maintain the "penny lunch" and $1,000 to the Sarah Moore Home for the Aged, were made in a will left by Mrs. Fred M. Bauerle of that city.

Hibernians celebrate the day religiously. The non-Irish use it as an excuse to get some good out of the verdant Christmas neckties they haven't the nerve to wear any other day in the year.

Incidentally, all the citizens of greenish hue you note on the morrow will not be observing St. Patrick's day. Some just won't have gotten over the size of yesterday's income tax payment.

Lilies Save Utah

By The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY—Twice have the people of Utah been saved from starvation by the state flower, the abundant sego lily—once in legend, once in fact.

In 1849, a year after the Mormons entered the Salt Lake valley, their crops had not matured and their provisions had been exhausted. The settlement survived principally by eating lily bulbs.

In another instance, a Ute Indian legend would have it, the survivors of a great battle were saved from famine by lilies which miraculously sprang up on the bloody field.

Twenty Years Ago

It was Tuesday, March 16, 1926.

Seven buildings in the business district were destroyed at a loss of $90,000 when a fire hit Sunbury in Delaware county.

The temperature in Marion was standing at the 21 degree mark following one of the worst blizzards of the winter in which nearly an inch of snow fell in 15 minutes.

An official bulletin issued by physicians reported that Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of President Coolidge, was rapidly growing weaker at his home in Plymouth, Vt.

George Whysall, manager of the Marion Water Co. in a written statement charged that city officials were stalling in the effort to arrive at a decision regarding new water rates.

Stanley Smith of Morral was seriously injured when he was run over by the truck he was driving for the Morral Lumber and Elevator Co.

Walter Prendergast, secretary to the United States minister to Nicaragua, arrived here to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Prendergast of 493 East Church street.

Grant E. Mouser, Jr., was spending the day in Fremont. Shamrocks and harps carried out the St. Patrick day motif for the dinner meeting of the Altrusa club at Hotel Harding.

Daily Bible Thought

God has kept faith, but men have ignored God's protection, and have been indifferent to it. Pray that humanity now has learned to be guided wholly by God's will. Ezekiel 34:25: "And I will make a covenant with them of peace, and will cause the evil beasts to cease out of the land; and they shall dwell safely in the wilderness, and sleep in the woods."

The report of the VA survey of smaller colleges will be interesting if it ever is made public. The survey might show just how much of the higher-education system has survived the war to carry on in the emergency ahead.

Speaking of Higher Education

Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz has so many invitations to deliver commencement addresses that he can't fill them all. Nearly a dozen of them fall within date and geographical limitations that make only a few of them possible. The problem: how to accept any invitation without offending all the rest of the schools.

VFW Campaign

At the same time, the Veterans of Foreign Wars are opening a campaign to expand the nation's educational system through federal subsidies. Presumably a large portion of the funds would go to some smaller colleges.

"GOD OF CREATION" FILM TO BE SHOWN

Sound Picture To Be Presented at U. B. Church.

A sound motion picture, "The God of Creation," will be brought to Marion next Thursday night for showing at First U. B. church, Rev. Garrison Roebuck, pastor, announced. Composed of full color scenes from astronomy and natural science moving picture photography, the film was produced in the west coast laboratory of the Moody Bible Institute by Dr. Irvin A. Moon, "preacher-scientist." It is distributed by the extension department of the Moody Institute, and is the second in a series of evangelistic films produced by Dr. Moon. The first, "They Live Forever," had a wide showing and appeared in Marion last year. Time of showing of the film at the U. B. church will be 7:30.

In the opening section of "The God of Creation," the audience takes a trip to the stars" by means of solar photographs taken through the giant 100-inch telescope of Mt. Wilson observatory in southern California, and views the complex gyrations of our own solar system.

DRIVE TO CUT OPA LIFE SET

Price Control Foes Seek To Limit Extension to Ninth Month Period.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 16.—The Capitol Hill fight on OPA widened today with a drive to put a nine-month limit on any new lease on life for the agency, instead of the year's extension asked by President Truman.

House opponents added this new objective to their previously announced goal of seeking sharp curtailment of OPA's existing powers if the agency is continued.

List of Changes

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), spearhead of the Republican-southern Democrats alignment, announced he would seek these amendments to the bill continuing OPA and subsidies:

1. The price control and stabilization acts should be continued for a period not later than April 1, 1947, not the June 30 date.

2. No maximum price to be set on any commodity that does not give its producer a reasonable profit.

3. Automatic liquidation of OPA controls. Industry advisory committees would be authorized to certify to OPA when the production of a particular commodity reaches a certain percentage of normal demand—the percentage yet to be determined.

4. Gradual removal of subsidies on all commodities and proportionate increases of the prices upon such commodities.

5. Continued control of rents but with a clarification of the legislative intent.

Now Before Committee
The OPA continuation legislation now is before the house banking committee.

The battle probably will move to the house floor April 1.

N.A.M. HEAD TO GIVE OPA BLAST MONDAY

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Robert R. Wason, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, will appear before the house banking and currency committee Monday to present industry's case for removal of price controls on manufactured goods.

Mr. Wason is expected to argue that price controls are hindering production and actually increasing costs to the consumer.

Eric Corp. are not scheduled until next week.

There was a week-end recess in the coal industry's wage conference in Washington and blithesome operators prepared their reply to demands submitted by John L. Lewis for a new contract with his AFL United Mine Workers.

Time in Doubt

Charles O'Neill, chairman of the operators negotiating committee, who requested the recess did not indicate how much time was needed to reply to the nine general demands the UMW presented disclosed Tuesday.

The proposals include higher pay, a shorter work week and a health and welfare fund. Lewis has threatened a strike on April 1, when the present contract ends, if the demands are not met. However, he said yesterday, that "we hope an agreement can be reached here without any loss in production."

Another threat of a strike came from the Pacific coast as three federal conciliators were called in an effort to break the deadlock on wage discussions in San Francisco between Harry Bridges' CIO Longshoremen's and Waterfront Employers association. Union spokesmen said, however, the disputants "not absolutely no place" and did not know whether the union would participate in another meeting. They said the employers had rejected a union proposal for continuous negotiations.

Offer 18 Cents

The union, demanding 35 cent hourly wage boosts, has been offered 18 cents.

In Washington, federal conciliators announced settlement of the four and one half months strike of 1,700 CIO Farm Equipment Workers at the South Bend, Ind., plant of the Oliver Corp. Details of the wage hikes were not announced but spokesmen said the terms "follow the general national policy of 18 cents." Members of the CIO United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers union at South Bend will vote tomorrow on ratification of the agreement.

Approximately 675,000 workers, including the 275,000 GM and GE strikers, remained idle because of labor disputes.

Grange Candidates Initiated at Meeting

A class of 45 candidates was given the first and second degrees at a countywide grange meeting held Wednesday night in the New Bloomington High school auditorium. Approximately 450 persons attended representing Bethlehem, Mt. Olive, Bowling Green, Montgomery and Tynochie Granges.

Inspecting the degree work was Elmer Williams, deputy of all Marion county Granges. The first degree was conferred by officers of Mt. Olive Grange and the second degree by officers of Bowling Green Grange.

Short talks were given by Ralph Williams, pastor of Bethlehem, Zell Owen, master of Mt. Olive, John Owen, master of Bowling Green, and Cletus Uhl, master of Montgomery Grange.

many and Japan, have been laid low.

"Japan was overthrown almost entirely by American arms. Russia recovered almost without striking a blow all that she lost to Japan 40 years ago. In the west the Baltic States and a large part of Finland have been incorporated in Russia. The Curzon Line is no longer questioned."

Churchill said there has been much misunderstanding in recent days, declaring:

"I could have a greater example of misunderstanding than when we are told that the present British government is not free democratic government because it consists only of the representatives of a single party whereas Poland, Romania, Bulgaria and other countries have the representatives of several parties in their governments?"

The argument overlooks the fact that democratic governments are based on free elections.

"These misunderstandings will be swept away if we get through the present difficult period safely and if the British, American and Russian peoples are allowed to mingle freely with one another and see how things are done in their respective countries."

Hundreds of pickets, including a large bloc of CIO members, demonstrated outside the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel where Churchill spoke.

The dinner climaxed a day-long reception during which Churchill at a noon-day luncheon called for the world to stand by the United Nations Organization, declaring "If the U.N.O. succeeds, all will be safe."

Chants "We Want Peace"

A spokesman for the Greater New York C.I.O. Council, one of the groups leading the demonstration, said they were protesting "the official nature of the British" being accorded Britain's former prime minister.

"We want peace; Churchill wants war," the pickets chanted as they paraded before the fashionable Park Avenue Hotel.

The picket line also included members of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Before the luncheon at the Metropolitan Club Churchill received a roaring reception in a tour past Manhattan's skyscrapers. At the luncheon he said:

"We must stand by this great institution and nothing must be done to mar its integrity and unity or weaken its sovereign power. It is the duty of all to strengthen it, to respect it, and to respect its decisions. If it fails, almost immeasurable misfortune and despair would envelop human affairs."

NEW BLOOMINGTON — A "Good Samaritan" act was performed Friday when 22 friends and neighbors went to the David Schaefer farm and husked corn.

The wives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Schmidt with well filled baskets and served dinner there.

Mrs. Schaefer and daughter Grace, who lost their home and practically all furnishings by fire recently, just three days after Mr. Schaefer's burial, have secured a new housecar and are now making their home on their farm.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

Robert C. Littell, 19, of 414 Flea Street was found not guilty of disorderly conduct at a hearing today in municipal court. He was arrested yesterday at the police station when patrolmen said he behaved in a disorderly manner when he came to inquire about his brother, Charles, 23, arrested on a charge of stealing two driving lights from a car owned by Arthur Sweeny of 625 Wood street. The case against Robert Littell was dismissed on the motion of his counsel on the grounds that the prosecution had no case. Charles Littell's hearing on the January charge, originally set for today, was postponed.

The civic dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel climaxed the reception, for which precautions were the most thorough ever made for a visitor here. Hundreds of detectives and policemen—and two men from Scotland Yard—guarded the former prime minister and mingled with the crowds in the day time activities.

750,000 Watch

Police Commissioner Arthur Wallander estimated 750,000 persons watched the 10-car motorcade. Through it all Churchill sat high on the open seat of his car, smiling and waving as he puffed a big cigar.

Police estimated 3,000 persons were at City Hall Plaza when Churchill arrived, some of them hissing and boozing as he entered the building. He ignored the actions.

At least 25 placards were raised over the heads of spectators, proclaiming "No American shall die for Churchill" and "No World War Three." Twenty persons were arrested because police said they refused to stop milling about and shouting. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

GREEN CAMP GUILD MEETS

Mrs. Charles Wasserbeck of Green Camp was hostess to the Women's Guild of the Evangelical and Reformed church near Green Camp Wednesday. A World Day of Prayer service was observed and a book review was given by Mrs. Marlon Harper. Mrs. Ida Coffey was a guest.

Churchill-Stalin Feud Is Another Woe for Austria

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press World Traveler

VIENNA, March 16.—Winston Churchill's Missouri speech and the vitriolic reaction from Moscow continue to reverberate sharply in central Europe and so it perhaps wasn't surprising—that unexpected as that the president of Austria, Dr. Karl Renner, should refuse voluntarily to the affair during an interview which he accorded me at the chancellery.

"We (Austria) have one man sorrow just now aroused by the dispute between Churchill and Stalin," said Dr. Renner. "The unity of the world is our life and the end of unity would be the end of Austria."

I asked, "Do you agree with the pessimists?" Renner smiled broadly. "In the way which is one of the greatest assets of his personality."

"I find it difficult to be pessimistic," he said. Dewitt Mackenzie and then added: "I should prefer not to live to see another war come."

"What of Austria's future?" I asked.

"What are your plans?" said Dr. Renner. "The republic never was involved in a war but we want a treaty to clear up our legal position. We are liberated but are in a worse position than the conquered nations."

Can't Rule Nevers

"We have a parliament and government which can't govern at all because there are four military governments. Every act of our government needs the permission of the four powers and this is generally too late or not at all."

"In one word the big task of the immediate future is to fix the international and internal status of Austria this is only possible by treaty. It can't be done by dictation."

"Big industries are run by the Allies not for their own interest but in such manner that we can't formulate a general reconstruction plan. We hope a treaty will give us back the whole power over industry, agriculture, commerce and transportation. We hope for a claim in a peace conference—not in the accepted sense of the term but like a peace conference—and we would submit the treaty to parliament."

Wants One Control

"We are not against foreign troops staying in Austria. We need them to protect our frontiers but 30,000 men would suffice and the command should be in one hand, not in four. As to Nazism and Fascism we shall be finished with them soon. There is no danger of their survival."

"If we grow good chickens," he added with another big grin "we will export them."

"The Polish agreement says German assets belong to the Allies. If this sentence is carried out then Austria is a beggar. (Dr. Renner referred to the fact that when Hitler annexed Austria he took over most available assets.) If the German acts of annexation are nullified then these things belong to us."

Bible Class Hears
Dr. Hastings Eells

Dr. Hastings Eells of the history department of Ohio Wesleyan university was guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Wednesday Noon Bible class at the YMCA. His subject was
"What Makes a Christian Nation?"

Basing his talk on a comparison of the philosophies of Niccolo
Machiavelli with the philosophies and teaching of Christ, he denounced the former's book, "The Prince" as "a work without a shred of common honesty or principle," and said that this book had led to the adoption of the term Machiavellian for all that is crooked and unprincipled in statecraft. Citing Machiavelli's teaching as "success at any price versus honor in all our dealings with one another; get power and use power, deceit against the truth;
the truth and the truth will make you free; we are stewards, accountable to God."

There is a great struggle between these two patterns of living, he declared. A Christian nation will seek to follow the patterns of Jesus Christ. Continuing he said: "American history shows our country sometimes following the Machiavellian pattern. We too often study our Bibles with colored glasses, reading it just to prove our own viewpoint. We should read it with an open mind and recognize the Divine Power of God."

The speaker next Wednesday will be Professor J. S. Engle, department of Bible at Oberlein college. His subject will be "The Revision of the Bible."

FARM CERTIFICATES
DUE ON WEDNESDAY

Machinery Permits To Expire Unless Accepted.

Veterans who hold farm machinery preference certificates issued prior to Feb. 20 must present them to and have them accepted by a dealer on or before next Wednesday or they will become void on that date. County AAA Chairman Frank G. Montgomery has announced.

The AAA chairman also pointed out if the dealer accepts the preference certificate on or before next Wednesday and finds it impossible to obtain the machinery to enable him to honor the certificate by April 20, the certificate becomes void unless renewed before that date.

Renewal can be applied for at the county AAA office where the certificate was issued, and the letter of renewal must be in the dealer's hands before the certificate expires.

Under present rulings the dealer no longer is required to fill an order on a veteran's certificate from equipment he has on hand at the time the certificate is presented to him. The certificate must however, be honored when the next item of like equipment is received by the dealer, Chairman Montgomery said.

A dealer is not required to accept preference certificates from veterans who live outside his trade territory.

Preference orders now issued must be placed with a dealer within 15 days or they become void, and if the dealer is unable to satisfy the certificate within 90 days of the date the certificate is issued, it becomes void unless a renewal is obtained from the county AAA committee and placed in the dealer's hands before the expiration date of the certificate.

900 Jam Armory To See Champs Crowned in Golden Gloves Finals

Seven District AAU Titles Awarded in Armory Fights

Delaware's Charles Moore Fights Twice To Nab Lightweight Belt; Total Attendance Passes 2,000.

BY ART MYERS

Seven Golden Gloves champions, from heavyweight, to paper-weight, were crowned last night at the closing session of the Golden Gloves AAU district tournament, sponsored by the Y's Men's Club.

Nine hundred sports fans packed the armory, standing in every available space, making it full houses for all three nights of boxing, and bringing the total number of customers for the entire tourney to well over 2,000. Eleven bouts, including non-title and exhibition matches, were staged last night.

The night's excitement started before the crowd had time to settle into its seats. Charles Moore of Delaware, knocking out Ronald Abrams of Marion in the curtain-raiser. Both lightweights, the boys each had a decision to his credit in earlier fights, but Abrams was the favorite on the basis of a beating he had handed Leo Tuscan of Galion Monday night.

Loses No Time

Moore lost no time in showing he didn't put much stock in favorites. He came out of his corner at the opening bell swinging with both hands to Abrams' head. Abrams was completely outclassed and overwhelmed. He covered his head with his gloves and Moore handed him an unmerciful beating. He went down for the count of nine midway in the round but got up and managed to weather the storm until the bell. In the second round Abrams started with more aggressiveness but soon ran into some of Moore's haymakers. He went back to his coveting tactics and was pounded down for another count of nine, but managed to stick out the round.

Mulvaine Out Front in Y Foul Shooting

Richard Mulvaine scored the highest individual total in the state foul shooting contest held at the Y. M. C. A. He scored 87 out of a possible 100 while Lawrence Weiss was second with 82.

Y-Indus was the only team entered and clinched a record of 404 tosses out of 500. Scores of the five team members were: Mulvaine 87, Weiss 82, Schmidt 79, Roseberry and Somerton 78.

In the final round Moore got his knockout. Before the round was many seconds old he caught Abrams with a terrific right, knocking him against the ropes; as he came off the ropes Moore nailed him again. Abrams was knocked across the ring where he slumped down into a corner and was counted out.

Fight Again for Title

The bout made Moore eligible for the lightweight final, which he fought with Richard Auck of Bucyrus. Auck had drawn a bye. In Auck he found a man very hard to hit who could take a punch well. The first round found the fighters feeling each other out, with few solid blows being struck. In the second round Moore caught Auck a couple of times in exchanges, but the fight was still anybody's fight going into the last round. Moore came out for the last round, his sixth of the night, with a look of determination and a pair of flattening gloves.

Midway in the round he caught a hard right and was obviously hurt, but recovered well and came back strong. The fight ended with Auck forcing the fighting but Moore giving an excellent exhibition of weaving and ducking. It was a close one, a split decision, but Moore took it. He had consistently shaded Auck, and the crowd gave him a big hand.

Favorite Is Upset

The welterweight championship fight was a stunning upset. The final in this class was between Jack Draper of Marion, one of the hardest hitters in the tourney, and Willard Light of Bucyrus. Draper had mowed down all previous opposition, scoring a decision and a KO in previous fights and Light had only a lukewarm decision to his credit. Light sat in the ring during the intermission before the fight looking like a lamb being led to the slaughter. The crowd

HARDER MAKES FIRST START FOR INDIANS

Dean of Tribe Hurters Opens 19th Season.

By The Associated Press

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 16—McHarder, dean of the Cleveland Indians, makes the first exhibition start of his 19th season with the Tribe today against the Boston Red Sox. Harder, a sterling veteran who is listed among the few current major league hurlers who have topped the 200-victory mark, will open today's contest. Vic Johnson, young southpaw obtained from the Bosox in a trade for Jim Bagby, and Ed Klemmer also will take the mound.

A pair of veterans, Don Ross and Frank Hayes, sparked the Tribe to a 13-inning 7 to 6 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals in a hard-fought contest yesterday.

Ross slammed a homer into the left field bleachers in the 13th frame to give the Tribe a game-winning edge, while Hayes made two timely hits and caught the entire game in his first exhibition appearance.

was keyed up and when Draper, the supposed executioner got into the ring he drew an ovation. But Light was another boy who doesn't believe everything he hears.

The boys had scarcely squared off in the opening round when Light caught Draper on the jaw with a terrible left hook that dazed him. Light followed up and slammed Draper against the ropes in the corner with a right on the temple. Draper hung on the ropes almost completely out; he took a nine count and came out of the corner seemingly dazed. Referee Wagner asked him if he wanted to continue and he said yes emphatically enough to show he was not as dazed as he looked. But his left eye was almost completely closed and he had no coordination. The bell saved him for the next round as the crowd went wild.

Throws In Towel

Light showed it was no mistake in the next round. At about the 10-second mark he caught Draper to knock him down for the count of nine. Draper got up and was promptly dropped for another count of nine. Light rushed Draper to the ropes, where he had him pinned, when Joe Yannet, who was seconding Draper, threw the towel in the towel, stopping the fight. Draper was very reluctant to quit, and may yet have won the fight, since a man with his acknowledged punching power is dangerous at any time. The judges gave Light credit for a technical knockout.

The classiest fighter of the tournament, Leland Strahm of Carey, performed in the middleweight final, decisioning Ernie Arcuri of Marion to take the championship. Strahm is a picture boxer, who has a classic left jab and follows up and covers like a pro. In addition to this, he has a wallop in either hand, and should go far in boxing. He knocked his opponent out Monday night without once being hit. But in Ernie Arcuri's last night Strahm ran into a very tough boy, who can take plenty and can dish it out on his own account.

Strahm started the bout feeling Arcuri out, looking for a knockout. He began flicking lightning left jabs, and soon began following through with right hooks. At one time he got Arcuri against the ropes, but Arcuri held him off, fighting a fine defensive battle.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY'S face was sad as he looked questioningly at me after Katherine had led his mother into the adjoining apartment, and I knew that his heart held the same fear that was in mine.

Some day there will be a heart attack from which his mother will not rally, and this sharp reminder was making him realize afresh how much he will miss the colorful personality which has been so strong a factor in his life since his birth.

Often Resentful

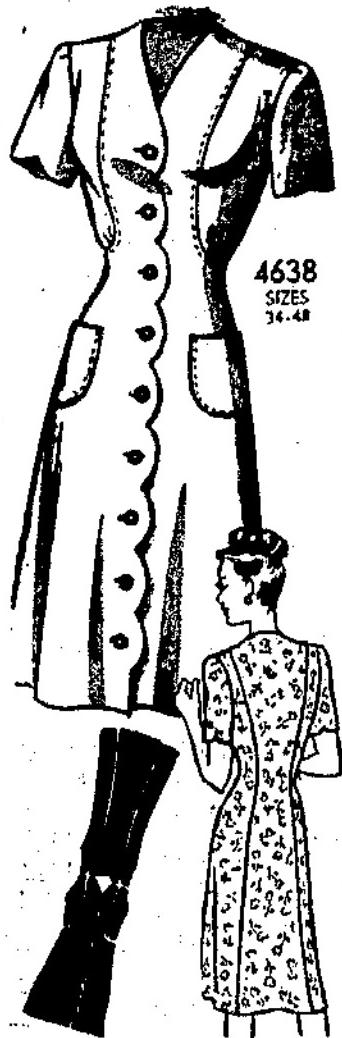

Often he resents her arrogant, domineering little ways, but equally as often he admires her wisdom, her generosity, and her real loveliness; when, as he often says, she "condescends to descend from her high horse." But, always, he loves her dearly, and I know that he will grieve long and deeply when the inevitable final leave-taking comes.

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y.—Seven-year-old Tommy Wing got home late from the movies the other afternoon and his folks asked how come. It was this way, Tommy reported. He'd lost his 18 cents and anyway he wanted to take along a friend. So he'd stopped in at the bank and obtained a 36-cent loan from one of the officers. Negotiations like that, you know, take time.
